DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 is indefinite since "it" is recited on line 1. What does this refer to, specifically?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weinstein '264 in view of Japanese Patent '478.

Weinstein '264 discloses a portable type fastener driving tool which is provided with a main body which houses a rod which drives in the fasteners; a rod driving out means which pushes the rod forward in the axial direction; a head part which is disposed on the front end of the main body and which is provided with a fastener guiding part; a fastener retaining means which loads a fastener connecting body which is made by connecting multiple fasteners using a connecting material so that they are arranged parallel to one another; and a power operated fastener feed means which feeds the fastener connecting bodies which is loaded on the aforementioned fastener retaining means in the direction in which the fasteners are arranged and which feeds the fasteners one by one in front of the rod. However, Weinstein '264 lacks the fastener feed drive means being different than the rod driving means. JP '478 discloses driving a rod with an electromagnetically actuated piston. In view of the teachings of JP '478, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to decouple the driving out mechanism from the nail feeding mechanism by using different driving sources which can be done by replacing the pneumatic piston (220) of Weinstein '264 with the electromagnetic piston (12,13,14) of JP '478 in order to more effectively operation the tool. Additionally, Weinstein '264 discloses a battery and electric wiring for the fan in the combustion chamber, which can also be used to control the solenoid of this electromagnetic piston, which carries out the same function in JP '478, which feeds the nails in front of the driving out rod.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 4 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See the attached PTO-892 for related art.
